DILLON, S. C., DEC. 29, 1910.

A Kirksville, Missouri, man who insisted that he never told a lie or slandered with his wife, is dead.
His wife, too, are from Missouri.

Congress has any doubts about the high cost of living we call its attention to the "Price of South Carolina Produce" column in the Dillon newspaper.

A few days Martin F. Ansel will retire as governor of South Carolina. He will throw off the care and burdens of public office and take up in his plain, unostentatious manner the duties of a private citizen. Few men have ever served the State with greater wisdom and none have ever served it with greater zeal and fidelity. There has been nothing spectacular about his administration. He went into office quietly, and his official acts were performed in an easy, quiet, business-like manner and there will be nothing ostentatious about his retirement, but he has been governor in every sense the word implies.
The ship of the State has been his hand was on the of his official acts can it be that he was influenced by scheming or designing politicians or by any thought of his own political advancement. In this day of practical politics it is refreshing to know that for four years we have had as governor of our State a man who has labored earnestly and unselfishly for the public good, with no thought of something "higher up," and whose administration has been a benediction to mankind. Mr. Ansel has made an ideal governor and he is eminently deserving of the "well done, thy good and faithful servant."

Farewell 1910.

This is the last issue of The Herald that will reach its readers during the year 1910. During the past 12 months there have been many changes in The Herald and it would be ungrateful in us to close the year without a word of thanks to those who have helped us to make it one of the best weekly papers in the State. On March 13th the old plant was destroyed by fire and for several months we labored under the most trying circumstances to provide the people of Dillon county with a newspaper. By having part of the paper printed in Charlotte and the other half at the plant of our Latta contemporary, The Observer, we issued The Herald regularly and did not miss a single issue. Of course, the paper did not come up to the standard of the average weekly publication, but our readers bore with us patiently until our new plant was installed.
Notwithstanding the loss we sustained by fire The Herald is on a better foundation than ever before and it is our purpose to issue, during the year 1911, a model weekly paper in every sense of the word—a paper fully deserving of Dillon county and its unequalled natural resources. To this end we invite the aid of our patrons.

In closing the year we desire to express to our patrons our heartfelt thanks for the many considerations they have shown us and to assure them that every word of encouragement and the liberal support they have given us are highly appreciated. For each of them we wish unbounded prosperity and a full measure of happiness during the year 1911.

Generations Beginning With Lock From Patrick Henry's Head.

Bennettsville, Dec. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cater, of Jacksonville, Fla., and J. P. Branch, of Norfolk, Va., are spending a few days at Hotel McCall with Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Derby. Mr. Branch and Cater were called to Bennettsville on account of the death of their mother, Mrs. Louise Branch, who, at the time of her death, was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank R.
Derby.

Mrs. Derby received at the hands of her mother a most interesting heirloom in the form of a handsome brooch of unique design, made of gold and enamel, and containing small locks of hair from the heads of three generations, beginning with Patrick Henry, and at that time contained locks of their hair.
Afterwards was added a lock of hair from the head of their son, Edward Winston Henry, and later that of Edward's daughter, Rosaline Henry Lewis, who was the mother of Mrs. Louise Branch. Mrs. Derby intends to have the brooch again opened and place therein a lock of Mrs. Branch's hair. The back of the brooch is of heavy gold and the names of Patrick Henry and Dorothy D. Henry were thereon engraved under the direction of the former.
Since then have been engraved the names of Edward Winston Henry and of Rosaline Henry Lewis. Beneath these names will be put that of Louise Henry Lewis Branch.

At the time of her death Mrs.
Branch was not known by many of Bennettsville's citizens, as she came here a few weeks ago on a visit, but those who met her were impressed with her splendid mental grasp of current life and with the scope of her reading and historical information.

Marriage at Fork.

Mr. R. S. Moore and Miss Annie Atkinson took their friends by surprise and were quietly married at Fork last Friday afternoon at four o'clock. The marriage is of particular interest to Dillon folks as the bride and groom resided here for a number of years and are pleasantly remembered by a large circle of friends. The bride is a young lady of many graces of mind and person, and is deservedly popular among all who know her. The groom is a prominent merchant and planter of Fork and has scores of friends in Dillon, who wish him and his charming bride much happiness and prosperity on their journey through life.

The store of J. P. Martin, at Harper, was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown. The store was closed Monday night and several hours later it was discovered on fire. Mr. Martin was sick in bed and knew nothing of the fire until the building was almost destroyed. The loss is about $4,500 with $3,000 insurance.

busy and at the result wedding bells rang for two popular young Dillon couples. Monday morning Dr. Workman stole away from town and when he returned he brought home as his bride Miss Ronnie Anderson, a former teacher in the graded schools. Monday afternoon at five o'clock Dr. Workman and Miss Anderson were married in Sumter by the Rev. Mr. Duncan of the Methodist church of that city. The bride has many friends in Dillon from whom she will receive a very cordial welcome, and the groom is receiving the congratulations of numerous friends upon having won such a charming life partner. For the present Dr. and Mrs. Workman will be at home to their friends at the Commercial Hotel.

Saturday afternoon while the Christmas festivities were at their height Mr. H. M. Rogers and Miss Fannie Morgan were quietly married at the parlors of the Price-Court Inn, the ceremony being performed by Rev. C. G. Leonard. The bride is a native of North Carolina, but for several seasons has been the popular milliner at Morris Fass.
The groom is a son of Mr. L. B.
Rogers near Latta and has been a cotton buyer on the Dillon market for the past season. The young couple is well known in Dillon society and each has a host of friends whom The Herald joins in wishing them a long life of happiness and prosperity. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rogers left for Latta, where they will spend several days with the groom's father. Next year their home will be near Little Rock where Mr. Rogers will engage in farming.

Appreciative Readers.

We have received many compliments from our readers on the excellent paper we are publishing and scarcely a day passes that we do not receive renewals for another year, and sometimes two years, with the assurance that The Herald is highly appreciated. These kind words are very much appreciated, and will stimulate us to greater effort during the coming year. A subscriber from Bingham says:

"Please change my paper from Lingham to Fork. I like your paper very much."

Another renewal from Latta says:

"I am well pleased with your paper. It is worth $150 of any man's money."

A subscriber on R. R. No. 1, renewing for two years, says:

"Enclosed you will find $3 for two years' subscription. The Herald is a welcome visitor every week.
I wish it would come every day.
It is the best county paper I have ever seen."

We assure our friends that these kind words are very much appreciated.

Chushed to Death By Wheel.

Charleston, Dec. 26.—M. G. Copeland, night engineer at the power station of the Consolidated Railway company on Sullivan's Island, was caught in the belting of the machinery and killed shortly after midnight.

Copeland and the fireman were alone in the power station. At the according to the fireman's statement the engineer met his death, went, the latter's duties took him elsewhere in the station, so that he did not witness it. The clogging of the man's body in the machinery is said to have affected its operation and first gave the fireman notice that something had happened.

It required eight hours to take the machinery partly to pieces and remove the big wheel which held Copeland's body to the floor. Cope-land's wife was waiting her husband's arrival, having prepared a hot meal for him, when she was notified of his death.

Other casualties marked the day, and in the hospitals have been many cases of accidental shooting, burns and victims of the ready use of the pistol. The coroner took the ante mortem statement of several of the patients to-day.
